eral agent of the Illinois Life Insurance

BALDHEADED CLUB.

Meeting Held in Ex-President Kelly's Fine Office.

Col. Bamberger Opens Negotiations With the Shah of Persia For Second Hand Wives.

The Bald-headed Club met by invitation Saturday night in the new and luxuriously furnished apartments of Col. Walter Kelly, over the First National Bank. The meeting was the first held for several months and was in the nature of a reunion for the winter season.

Nearly all of the old members were present and a number of new applications for membership were on the secretary's desk. Col. Lem McKee was conspicuous among the early arrivals and held quite an ovation in receiving congratulations over the recent triumph he scored as the Fat Lady in the Elks' circus.
The Colonel still wore the beautiful dimples in his cheeks that caused such a sensation at the circus. He no longer wears the luxuriant blonde tresses that caused him to be mistaken for "The Girl with the Auburn Hair."

Col. Bill Howell, after securing a chew of Col. Eggleton's best tobacco, sat down on the sofa and claimed the distinction of being the first person to expectorate on Col. Kelly's Armstrong. Col. Howell said he considered himself fortunate to be on hand. Pierceport Morgan, Russell Sage, Teddy Roosevelt and himself had all been under the weather for some time and while Teddy was able to shoot off his gun in Mississippi and his mouth at Memphis, he was himself hardly able to be about.

One by one the Colonels came in until the spacious rooms were filled with enthusiastic Knights of the Shining Plate.

Ex-President Kelly was by general consent accorded the honor of presiding and did so with his old time grace and dignity.

Col. Bill Bamberger, who has not yet succeeded in acquiring a wife, asked that a committee be appointed to investigate the report that the Shah of Persia had recently reduced to rank 1,640 of his 1,700 wives. The Colonel said he would shortly lay in a supply of Persian rugs and if the report was true he would try to arrange to give one forced queen with each purchase of a rug. In this way he thought Col. Ed Blakemore, Col. Bob Wool-drige and other self-worn bachelers could be worked off the matrimonial market. President Kelly appointed on the committee Colo.
Bamberger, Blakemore and Wool-drige.

Col. Henry Abernathy made a patriotic speech advocating a proposition to have the club petition President Roosevelt to enforce the Monroe doctrine in Venezuela's interest.

Col. Bob Wooldrige asked which Monroe it was who was to be given such prominence—Jack or Frank.
He added: "Jack Monroe's specialty is White Wyandotte chickens and Frank Monroe's hobby is printing, and I don't see how either of them could cut much ice in a warm country like Venezuela."

Col. Ches Pyle said it ought to be against the law for one man to monopolize so much information as Col. Wooldrige seemed to possess.
But he added, "I suppose in these times of trusts and monopolies, there is no way to prevent it."

Col. Wooldrige acknowledged the compliment by exposing his teeth.

Col. Walter Southall called attention to the fact that the next meeting would be the time for the regular annual election, and said he hoped there would be none of the usual excitement and bitterness growing out of those events. This WRITING SUCCESSFUL PLAYS. Some of the Tricks and Methods of Well-Known Playwrights.

Much has been said of late about the methods of the successful playwrights. It is known of a subject of the most expert interest—the tricks and methods of playwrights. Mr. Haddon Chambers, the author of many clever and charming plays, frankly confesses that he has no method. "No cratic art," he declares, "that I often begin in the middle of a play and complete, say the third act before I have the remotest idea of what to put in the first. This was the case in 'The Honorable Herbert,' where the third act fashioned itself so completely in my mind that I was compelled to sit down and write it before it escaped my memory, and then I turned to the first act."

Mr. Chambers has no difficulty in finding his plots. They come to him, as he says, with almost fatal facility; but before putting pen to paper he allows the plot to simmer in his mind for at least a month, until play and characters have assumed a coherent and tangible form in his mind. Practically all his writing is done at Westgate, for he finds London far too restless and feverish a place for quiet literary work.

Mr. Louis N. Parker equally pleads guilty to an utter lack of method in his work. "I rarely put pen to paper," he admits, "until managers begin to worry me about rehearsals, and I have only three or four days left in which to produce a four-act play. Then I work practically night and day until the thing is done, with the result that I always vow I will never write another."

As for his ideas, he says that he "begs, borrows, or steals them," and then endeavors to find some sort of character that can conceivably carry them out. With the central idea and characters settled, he finds no difficulty in weaving a suitable story around them. When collaborating with Mr. Carson, he says: "We are really only together during the incubation stage, and this sometimes only lasts a morning."

Mr. G. R. Sims has very decided views as to how a successful melodrama should be written, and probably no one is entitled to speak with more authority on this subject. The chief thing, he says, is to get a simple story, free from complication, and with plenty of passion, pathos, and humor in it. Having thus got the mental skeleton, he proceeds to clothe the plot with dialogue and fill in the incidents.

As all his plays are written for special cases he makes a point of "writing round" the individual actors who are to produce the play, and every line is written with a mental eye on the stage which no playwright is more familiar with.

When writing in collaboration he and his colleague usually spend a week in cogitation at some charming place, such as Brighton or Monte Carlo, returning home without a single line being actually written. Mr. Sydney Grundy, when he wants an idea for a play, seeks inspiration from one of his seasoned bulldog pipes—and never in vain. But when he has got his idea, the difficulty of working it out proves formidable. "I suffer from the disease of laziness," he says, "and I simply can't settle down to work until I am compelled to. But when once I start I go right ahead, working morning, noon and night until it is finished."

Having got a suitable idea, he first plans out a very light scenario, and begins to write with only a slight conception of his characters. Gradually, however, these assume form and reality, and before the first act is finished he is on perfectly good terms with them. When once the play is under way his brain is saturated with it, and everything else is thrown aside until it is completed. "I keep the stage in view throughout," he says, "as if it were a chess board, and get no mental rest until I have done the thing."

Some of Mr. Gilbert's best work has been suggested by very trivial incidents. The sight of a large Japanese sword inspired "The Mikado," and Mr. W. H. Smith's appointment as first lord of the admiralty was the origin of "Pinocchio." All his operas were written with a miniature copy of the Savoy stage before him, and every entrance and exit shown, and small blocks of wood, painted different colors to represent different voices, for actors.

There is no more methodical or conscientious worker among playwrights than Mr. Pinero. When he has a play in hand he works at it every day, quite regardless of the weather, however, touching his pen until the evening, which he finds to be his best working time. It is in the happy position of being able to write exactly what he pleases, and never to order. He never dictates his plays, nor will he allow anyone to come near him when he is writing. As for his ideas, they come to him at all times and places, and are jotted down on hundreds of scraps of paper, with which his pockets are stuffed. When the play is ripe for writing he produces all these countless literary fragments and from them evolves one of his delightful and brilliant plays.

KEEPING UP TO DATE.
The Government Takes an Automobile on a Rural Mail Route.
"The government is keeping up with the times in every respect," remarked a post office official to a Washington Star representative the other day. "Several of the departments are making experiments in wireless telegraphy, and we may see the day when every man can talk to the tenants on his farm without getting out of his easy chair at his own fireside, figuratively speaking. The man of the future may lay aside his self-smoking cigar and send a wireless telegram to his farm something like this: 'The weather bureau advises me that it will rain at four o'clock this afternoon. Make hay while the sun shines.' And the tenant, of course, will get in the hay."

"I am led to this prophesying by the fact that we have an automobile rural mail route out west, the first in the United States. During the Buffalo exposition the government conducted a city automobile service, but that was over smooth streets and was not an experiment. The first regular route has been established between Portland and Pennville, both in Indiana, and is a success. It covers a distance of 12 miles and it takes one hour for the mail to reach its destination. There are several small way stations served. The route is covered twice each day. The machine leaves at eight in the morning and at four in the afternoon. Half an hour after it reaches its destination it starts on its return trip. This gives time enough to answer any important letters by return machine. The machine generally used on this route will carry a dozen passengers, but in rough weather a smaller machine is used, with accommodations only for two, making a very exclusive conveyance for bridal couples. The service is in every way satisfactory, and it is probable that similar service will be established over the country. The government is ready to make contracts with companies establishing these passenger and express routes, and no doubt much mail will be carried in this way in the future."

URBANITY.
Its First Meaning Is "City Manners"—Derivation of Word.
Urbanity in its original application was "city manners, refinement." The word has retained all its old meaning, but, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, has become less exclusive and more elastic. Urbanity still means "pertaining to a city, refined, courteous," from the Latin urbanius, "belonging to a city." Hence, urbanity has come to mean courteousness. Urbanity, French, is civility. In Latin, urbanitas, "city manners." But now one may speak of the country man as decidedly urbane, by which is meant that he is suave, courteous, refined. Thus urbanity, originally descriptive of "city manners," urban refinement may be applied without discrimination to the courteous, refined and polished gentleman, no matter where he hails from. Its limited meaning and more limited application in earlier times may be easily accounted for. Urban populations represented the higher attainments, the culture, art and refinement of the earlier time. Cities were centers of intelligence and learning, the country being of coarse fiber. They had fewer opportunities to touch the refining processes of the age—processes limited only in themselves. Besides their cruder ways of living, their methods in thought and action hardened their natures, physically and mentally, and made them less responsive to the influence of civilization.

Feeble-Minded Children.
One in every hundred of the school children of England is classed as feeble-minded, and according to a public statement by Canon Hicks in Manchester recently this gives a total of 70,000 such children. There is an obvious moral to be drawn from the further statement of Dr. H. B. Donkin, a prison commissioner, that three per cent. of all male convicts belong to the same unhappy class.

One Woman

in ten thousand may have the opportunity to indulge her taste for outdoor sports. The nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine others must remain shut in to a sort of perpetual slavery, from which there is no escape. It is these shut-in women who suffer most from various diseases, and who, when they are cured and made strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, are eager to point the way of health to some other sufferer.

"I do not wonder that you call your medicine the 'Favorite Prescription,' after the help it has been to me," writes Miss Fort, Roberta, Treasurer Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, First Presbyterian Church, residing at 1000 East 20th Street, Kansas City, Mo. "So weak and so ill could hardly rise to my feet, but after I had used two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I was able to do so. I have advised a number of my friends who were suffering to use it, and have been gratified that it has helped all without exception."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, builds inflammation and lubrication, and cures female weakness. It is unequalled as a tonic for run-down, worn-out women.

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Great Story of Standard Oil

"Miss Tarbell's work is of unequalled importance as a 'document' of the day. Her story has live in it; it suffers and work and win and lose their battles with the verisimilitude that removes the tale from the dry statement and clothes it with the color of human interest and the vivid rainbow garment of human sympathy." — Boston Globe.

How Can I Keep Up with the Times?

It is pretty hard to keep well informed on the political news, the scientific news, the literary news, the educational movements, the great business developments, the hundreds of interesting and valuable articles in the hundreds of excellent magazines. About the only way it can be done by the average busy man and woman is to read a magazine like "The Review of Reviews," and, as it is the only magazine of the sort, it is a good thing to send $2.50 for a year's subscription.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT says:
"I know that through his columns views have been presented to me that I could not otherwise have had access to; because all earnest and thoughtful men, no matter how widely their ideas diverge, are given free utterance in its columns."

"I consider it a very valuable addition to my library."

The owners of the hotel are also owners of the Springs, and the guests of the Arcadia House have free access to the Springs without extra charge. Low Rates to Texas.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month the Cotton Belt Route will sell one way and round trip tickets at half the regular rate plus $2.00 to points in Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, and allowing stop over going, and return limit of 21 days.

This unusually low rate is made for the purpose of inducing immigration to the Great Southwest. It is believed by those who have made a study of conditions that no territory on the American Continent offers equal opportunities for farming, stock raising, fruit and truck growing, or any of the multiplied industries that are building prosperous towns and cities.

To the person of limited means desiring a home, this section of country offers greater inducements than perhaps any place on earth. The fertility of soil, exceedingly low prices of land, mild, open winters, long growing seasons enabling two and three crops to be made off the same ground, combines a greater number of advantages than may be found elsewhere.

Any of the following literature descriptive of the country and its resources along the line of the Cotton Belt Route will be sent free to any person upon application:

- "Homes in the Southwest."
- "Glimpses of Southeast Missouri, Arkansas and N. W. Louisiana."
- "Through Texas with a Camera."
- "Portunes in Growing Fruits and Vegetables."
- "The Diversifier."

The Delineator For February.

The number of the Delineator for February is replete with interesting and valuable matter. The display of fashions is inviting and up to date, and the literary contributions are of a high order. In fiction, two admirable short stories are presented: A change for the Better, a Western tale, by Louise Hartenburg Adams, and Pamela's Great-grandmother, by Arabella Keenly; and the interest in the serial, Thyra Varrick, is sustained in the development of the plot. Walden Faucett's article on the Road to Opera, is entertaining and fully illustrated. Miss Clara E. Laughlin's series entitled, Milada should be of deep interest to women; in the present paper she considers the claims of the home against the attractions of the business world for the young woman. A modern house artistic and convenient in arrangement and furnishings is illustrated and described. Dr. Grace Peckham Murray presents the first paper of a series treating health in the household. This paper considers the house itself and is a practical discussion of the various problems contained therein. Dancing: Aesthetic and Social, is the title of an article explaining a novel phase of exercise for women. The lessons in plain sewing designed to instruct children should prove beneficial and the stories and other matter for the children are as amusing and instructive as ever. Commercial Clubs' Convention At New Orleans.

The South is receiving a very large influx of immigration through the activity of its commercial clubs, its industrial, agricultural and manufacturing associations, and through the earnest efforts of the industrial and immigration agents of the North, who are fully alive to the opportunities of this region. To systematically and suggest the movement a convention will be held under the auspices of the New Orleans Progressive Union, of the commercial clubs and kindred bodies of the South, in the city of New Orleans on January 14 and 15. The convention will be called to order promptly at ten o'clock on Wednesday, the 14th, and proceed at once to business without formal preliminary addresses. In the evening of the same day it will sit in joint meeting with the Southern Passenger Association, composed of railroads of the southeastern territory, at which addresses will be made by prominent railroad men whose lines are associated with the movement. Among the speakers at this meeting will be Mr. S. F. Morse, Passenger Traffic Manager of the Southern Pacific; Mr. C. L. Stone, General Passenger Agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; Mr. S. H. Hardwick, General Passenger Agent of the Southern Railway, and Mr. A. H. Hanson, General Passenger Agent of the Illinois Central Railroad. It is anticipated that much practical benefit to the South will be derived as a result of this convention, and it is probable that every community which has a commercial club, industrial association, agricultural association, manufacturing association or any sort of a combination of citizens which has for its chief object the upbuilding of a community, will see the advisability of being represented at the convention, as the invitation has gone forth that all such will be welcome.

PLAYING THE PONIES.

"Speaking of luck in playing the ponies," said Mr. Frank Bryan, the race reporter, to an interested group, according to the Washington Star, "reminds me of my experience in the palmy days of the old Alexander Hotel and track in the middle nineties. One day, after having nibbled at all the good things offered and not caught a single bite, I was preparing to go back to town when I was accosted by a ragged tout, who insisted on my playing a horse that was about to run at East St. Louis, which he had formerly rubbed, he said, called Jim Hogg. I tried to turn myself away from the fellow and take the train, but he implored me with such eloquence and deep feeling that I reluctantly surrendered by giving him the $5 I had in my pocket. If I remember correctly Hogg was to 1. In a few seconds the telegraph shouted, 'They're off!' Seconds passed by, and it seemed to me, as the telegraph announced the running, that every horse stood a chance except Jim Hogg. Sure that I had dropped my last five, I turned to go. Just then the man at the keys shouted in stentorian tones, 'Jim Hogg wins!' and I galloped tripped into line and cashed. The tout? Oh, I fixed him so generously that the next day when he flaked up at the track his most intimate friends passed him by with a stony stare, and thought he was some Irish lord over in this country wearing out his old clothes."

"All race goes at the island. I imagine, remember old McKeever. He was an 'animal'—that is, he was once a year, and not unfrequently the men who were in the know went down on him, hob, line and sniker, in every know as much about McKeever then as I do later on. It so happened that I was in the ring, clanking down the odds, and incidentally looking out for a good thing to play, when I was attracted by the bold legs, written in quips as bold letters, McKeever, 15 to 1. I had a mauling $3 in my pocket, and as the walking was bad that day between the island and Washington I thought it good policy to hang on to the little and let long green in my possession, but instantly remembering I pulled out a dollar from the roll, and with a hanging look, slipped it into the hand of the man at the box. When I reached the reporters' stand I kept my counsel, for my reputation as a picker of winners was at stake, and I was determined not to give myself away. The horses were already at the post, and I noticed at every breakaway that McKeever was well in front. This demonstrated that the old dog was not a lobster at best. Finally, the flag fell, with McKeever again well in front. On the back stretch he was running like a mad horse, and leading his field by five lengths. On the turn for home he led by 15 lengths and was a wild horse. Then the old dog suddenly began to stop almost to nothing, when his jock went to work at him, and by riding intelligently lifted him in by a nose, and saved me from one of the worst cases of heart failure I was ever threatened with. When I realized that I had won the coin I slipped my fingers into my vest pocket and flourished my ticket under the very noses of my fellow reporters as evidence of my superior judgment in picking winners. Out of revenge they seized my hat, threw it on the floor, executed a war dance upon it, and did other extravagant things to express their opinions of my meanness in not putting them on to the good thing. The moral of this story is that frequently the less you know about the horses you play in a race the more liable you are to win."

THE DISTRICT PRIMARY.

The calling of a primary election in the third district to nominate candidates for circuit judge and commonwealth's attorney, is not without party authority, as was the case in calling a state primary. The party rules permit this method of making district nominations, and where the candidate ask for it and voluntarily put up the money to pay the expenses, there is no serious objection to it. But in calling the district primary Saturday, no attention was paid to the preferences of a majority of the candidates, nor to the unwillingness of the parties in interest to be taxed. The committee itself had very questionable authority. Mr. Green, of Christian, and Mr. Thompson, of Calloway, two of the three members whose votes settled the matter, are reputed to be candidates for office, one for prison commissioner and the other for State senator. If this be true, they are disqualified from

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Sent for list of testimonials. Address

Get the Most

Out of Your Food

You don't and can't if your stomach is weak. A weak stomach does not digest all that is ordinarily taken into it. It gets tired easily, and what it fails to digest is wasted.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are uneasiness after eating, signs of nervous headache, and disagreeable belching. "I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla at different times for stomach troubles, and a run down condition of the system, and have been greatly benefited by its use. I should not be without it in my family. I am troubled especially in summer with weak stomach and nervousness and find Hood's Sarsaparilla invaluable." E. B. HICKMAN, W. Chester, Pa.

serving on the committee and were without authority to act. Moreover, the assessment of $900 is a useless hold-up of the candidates, if Chairman Young's statement is correct that the entire cost of a State primary for thirty or more candidates will be $8 to the precinct. There are about 60 precincts in the third district and the cost of the state primary is to be $480, and yet the local candidates are to be taxed more than $13 to the precinct for the blessed privilege of getting their names on the machine ballot, in a primary, the expenses of which are already provided for. Under any construction of the party law, with equity as an object, the local candidates should be required to pay only a fair proportion of the $480 already set aside for holding the primary in their district, or at most one-half. The action in this case gives color to the charge that local candidates, wherever possible, are to be required to defray the expenses of the state primary and leave the assessments of certain state candidates, it may be, bound to the committee by ropes of sand. It was decided to assess the candidates $800, for the privilege of going into the proposed State primary. It is said that seven of the nine prospective candidates requested the committee to call a pro rata price at convention.

Committee-meetings have filed his appeal from Judge Cantrell's decision in the primary injunction case Friday and his counsel will make a motion today for its advancement on the docket. No agreement has been reached that it may be advanced, and the committee's attorneys may oppose the motion, as it is believed they are not very confident that Judge Cantrell will be affirmed.

A man named Fiato, believed to be insane, fired a pistol at one of the carriages in the royal procession of King Alfonso, of Spain, Saturday. He was arrested and said he did not shoot at the King, but wanted to kill one of the dukes with him.

Mr. Johanna Soderholm, of Ferguson Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by C. K. Wily, drugist.

Remarkable Cure of Croup.

A LITTLE BOY'S LIFE SAVED.
I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I gave a bottle of it from A. E. Steere of Godwin, S. D., and when I got home with the poor baby coughing hardly breathes. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes until he "threw up" and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. We had to get a phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive that if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine, my boy would not be on earth today.—Jest Demore, Inwood, Iowa. For sale by C. K. Wily.

BOY STILL IN JAIL.

Application Made to Have Him Sent to Greendale.

Application has been made to the County Judge by the mother of Bob Tucker, through the latter's attorney, Judge Joe McCarroll, to have the boy sent to the Kentucky Reform School at Greendale.

Tucker broke into J. L. Tobin's business house one night last week. He is still in jail.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I had used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail, says James Prendergast, merchant, Annapolis, Md. I had used it in the islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by C. K. Wily.

DO YOU GET UP

WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspaper is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Williams, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kline's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the best and poorest, that it has been found to be successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, and a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kline & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent bottle of Swamp-Root, dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

It is in many respects equal to the services of a household remedy, as a tonic after severe illness and as a strengthening for the stomach and digestive organs. In one case in particular it was of inestimable value in my household, and it is with pleasure that I testify as to its merits as a household remedy. Yours respectfully, R. C. CURES THE KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is the enemy we have most to fear as a result of the fearful haste of modern civilization. It is a treacherous enemy working out its deadly effect under cover of such trifling symptoms as headache, slight but persistent backache, dizziness, heart-trobbing and digestion, constipation, frequent or diminished passage of urine, scalding urine, sediment in urine.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
Is a kidney medicine of the greatest merit. Its action is healing and strengthening; quickly relieves aching or soreness in the back, checks wasting or decay of the kidneys, corrects the flow of urine and through its excellent cleansing and regulating effect in the stomach, liver and bowels it speedily restores the strength and ruddy glow of vigorous health.

I know medicine that is equal to it, but it is so pleasant to take. I can cordially recommend it to all persons, needing a medicine for cough or lung troubles." Price 50c, $1.00 bottle at R. C. DR. POWELL'S BANQUET.

List of Speakers Who Will Deliver Addresses.

Arrangements have been about completed for the ninth annual banquet of the Rev. Dr. E. L. Powell, pastor of the First Christian church at Fourth and Walnut Streets. This occasion, Dr. Powell says, is the pioneer of "the annual banquet" in Louisville, and certainly the annual church banquet. This year the banquet will be held January 22, and for oratory, good fellowship and menu will, no doubt, be as notable as any of its predecessors. The five speakers who have accepted Dr. Powell's invitation to address his guests, and the subjects upon which they will be heard, are as follows:

The Rev. Dr. J. Kinsey Smith, pastor of the Fourth-avenue Presbyterian church, "Brickbats and Bouquets."
Mr. A. Y. Ford, managing editor of the Courier-Journal, "1903 a Prophecy."

Gen. Basil W. Duke, "Boots and Saddles."

FRON BUS DRIVER

To Speaker in Legislature Is Col. Tyson's Record.

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 8.—From bus driver in North Carolina, some 25 years since, to speaker of the Lower Branch of the Tennessee Legislature, is the remarkable rise in life of Colonel L. D. Tyson, who was selected to-day at the Democratic caucus at Nashville. He secured an appointment to West Point and graduated with honors. He rose gradually to a Captaincy in the army, and was Colonel in the Sixth Immunes during the Spanish-American war.

Don't Worry.

This is easier said than done, yet it may be of some help to consider the matter. If the cause is something over which you have no control it is obvious that worrying will not help the matter in the least. On the other hand, if within your control you have only to act. When you have a cold and fear an attack of pneumonia, buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and use it judiciously and all cause for worry as to the outcome will quickly disappear. There is no danger of pneumonia when it is used. For sale by C. K. Wyly, drugist.

Judge Robbins Used His Pen Knife.

Fulton, Ky., Jan. 8.—At Wickliffe, Ky., R. B. Platt, of Clinton, went to the room of Judge J. E. Robbins, who was stopping at the hotel, and is alleged to have assaulted him. Platt is said to have been drinking and to have called the Judge a vile name and struck him.

Judge Robbins thereupon drew a small knife and cut Platt upon the face and twice on the throat. The knife blade was broken by contact with Platt's collarbone. The noise of the scuffle was heard below and the men were separated by Judge Robbins' friends. The Judge was not hurt and Platt's injuries are not serious.

Cut this out and take it to Wyly's drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, the best physic. They also cure disorders of the stomach, biliousness and headache.

The Five Noble P's

PUSH—The quality in man which urges him forward, and gives him the ability to urge anything forward, no matter what it is, is called push. This the successful poultry raiser must possess to some degree at least; the more he has of it the better he is off.

Push gets him up before day light and throughout the day forces him to urge his business for all it is worth. And, being tired from his day's exertion, he takes a good night's rest, and is well prepared the next morning for another day's activity.

It cannot be bought, borrowed, nor stolen; but it can be acquired; get it.

PUNCTUALITY—Have a certain time for doing things. Be on time. Let order prevail. Feed at a certain time each day and have a special time for gathering the eggs. Select certain days to give everything a thorough cleansing, and live up to it. Punctuality brings a man to the right place at the right time, and keeps him there until the proper time arrives for him to depart. It is an essential quality and one worthy of cultivation and practice.

PERSEVERANCE—How many failures there have been in the poultry business, and most of them have been caused by a lack of perseverance, or as it is called stick-to-it-iveness. Perseverance is that quality in man, by virtue of which he sticks to a thing, through thick or thin, o'er rough and smooth, and in failure as well as in success. This he does without a step backward, until success crowns his efforts and fortune smiles upon him, and takes him as her own.

Persevere as a poultryman and you will be successful as a poultryman.

PRINCIPAL—Show me the man without principal, and I will show you a dishonest man. It is as the conscience. If conscience tells us how to do right principal certainly urges us to do it.

The man without principal, no matter who he is, where he lives, or what he does, is as the rudderless ship, near the towering crags, with no beacon in sight. One lurch and it sink to rise no more.

The honest man possesses principle, he will not defraud a customer, he will do exactly as he agrees, and will do it to the best of his ability.

The unprincipled man should be shunned and discarded by all. PLUCK:

And when we see a plucky man We step out of the way. And watch him pass with sturdy stride No matter what may be.

Practice pluck to get good luck. Yes, we all bow to the plucky person. No matter how many difficulties an undertaking presents, he who possesses pluck has no fear of them, but with grit, grace and gumption, he goes at it, hews down the giant trees which bar his progress, and unaided and unassisted by others, reaches his goal.

The plucky poultryman cares naught for difficulties, but gets there just the same.

If any of those who peruse this article are fortunate enough to possess the five noble P's: Push, Punctuality, Perseverance, Principle and Pluck, I congratulate them.—LEWIS E. THACKER, Conesus, N. Y., in American Poultry Advocate.

"A THOROUGHBREED TRAMP."

This Popular Production Booked for Next Monday Night.

Manager Holland has secured an engagement, of the popular and laughable comedy drama, "A Thoroughbred Tramp," which has won such wide popularity over the country, and will be seen at the opera house next Monday night, January 19th. Concerning the play a Los Angeles, Cal., exchange has the following to say:

"Tattered and torn and tough the 'Thoroughbred Tramp' came into Los Angeles on a bandcar last night and took the Burbank theater by storm. T. Rush Thompson, P. B., (professional hump) 'a perambulating peediatric pedestrian,' who belongs to the 'Society for Keeping Out of Work,' is, when off the stage, a respectable, good-looking citizen, who answers to the name of John Leach, but when he makes his appearance as a tramp behind the footlights a Pinkerton detective would not recognize him. Niner's make-up is splendid and his acting is equally as good. He succeeded in keeping the house, which was crowded until there was not even standing room, in almost constant laughter, and in adding to his popularity by getting the best on numerous occasions of the very villainous villain, Frederick Lawrence, who is portrayed by W. B. Fredericks. The only fault to be found with Mr. Fredericks is that he makes his villainy too evident, although he has a hard part for the 'heartless rascal,' as he is designated on the program, appeals neither to the gallery nor to the pit. The scene of the plot—and there really is a plot worth following—is laid in a Colorado town. The play is full of thrilling as well as laughable situations, and the audience was ready to applaud both and did. Besides the tramp and the villain, the other principal characters are: Edward Temple, a Colorado miner, Harry Morton; Miss Mabel Hathaway, daughter of Old Socky, Margaret Fleetwood; Nellie Hathaway, her cousin; Helen Myrtle; Harriet Trenton, Mary L. Braby; Otto Hackmeyer, station agent; Martin Franklyn; Judge Gilpin; Justus of the peace, Clyde Tresselt; Hop Lee, Fred Finch."

The "Thoroughbred Tramp" will hold the boards at Holland's Opera House next Monday night, January 19th. Prices of admission, 25c, 35c and 50c.

WILL BE HERE.

At Holland's Opera House, Friday Jan. 16.

Concerning Mr. Doize and Miss Mamie Lorrimer, who will appear at Holland's Opera House, Friday night, Jan. 16, the Metropolis, Ill., Herald says: "It is with pleasure we are able to announce that Mr. Edouard Doize and Miss Mamie Lorrimer will again appear as Romeo and Juliet before a Metropolis audience. Managers Whyers & Quantie, of the Music Hall, have signed the attraction for a return date, and the company will present the elaborate production Thursday night."

"This company needs no word of recommendation to those of our people who attend the performance Friday night. All present pronounced it complete and finished in every detail and the company of players the most evenly balanced that has appeared here this season."

The work of Mr. Doize and Miss Lorrimer in the title roles was excellent and all the other characters were handled in like manner by the various members of the company. "There should, and no doubt will, be a large attendance at the return presentation Thursday night."

Morgan's Escape.

(FROM GLENN'S GRAPHIC)

We had announced our intention to commence with this week's issue of The Graphic, the publication of the first chapter of the Escape of Morgan and his men from the Columbus, Ohio, penitentiary, in November 1861. This is to be followed up week after week until the whole story shall be told. The readers of The Graphic may feel some disappointment when they learn that the first chapter of this interesting story will not appear until Thursday, the 5th day of February.

On account of there being already such a demand for The Graphic, not only from this portion of the state but from elsewhere, we have concluded to wait three weeks so as to give the people at large a chance to subscribe at the very first issue of these articles, as we shall not issue many extra copies. From the inquiries that are coming in from elsewhere, we are satisfied that there are thousands who are not now subscribers to The Graphic who are going to want the paper during the time these articles are run, if no longer.

We feel safe in promising to our readers and to the public in general, the most interesting reading that has appeared in any Kentucky paper for many a day. There is not a man, woman or child who knows Captain Hockersmith, who does not know that he is the very soul of honor, that he is faithful and reliable and that what he may say in these articles is the truth and nothing but the truth.

Of the men who were engaged in that wonderful and thrilling escape, there are but two now living, Captain Jake Bennett, and Captain Hockersmith. As Captain Hockersmith, planned and executed that escape, there has never been any one who was better able to tell that tale than the man who led Morgan and his men from the penitentiary that rainy night in November nearly forty years ago.

There have been a number of magazine articles written and published which claimed to be authentic, in reference to that escape from the Columbus penitentiary. The authors have been well paid for the same, yet as a general thing the writers knew but very little of the facts connected with the escape. Captain Hockersmith, now writes, not for fame, not for money, but because he wants the people, his friends, to know the whole history and further it is done at the urgent solicitation of his best friend, the editor of The Graphic. We give it to the world well knowing that every word and every statement therein is as true as gospel preaching.

Look for the beginning of this story on the 5th of February. It will be run week after week, and will perhaps last for three months. With the present form of The Graphic, the papers can be laid aside and the reader will have at the completion of the story, a complete history of this important event. Subscribe now.

DRAMATIC OFFERING

That Should Appeal to Lovers of Stage Art.

Theater-goers are awaiting with keen interest and anticipation the production at Holland's Opera House this evening of "Camille" by the Vendome Stock Company, in which Miss Jessie Bonstelle, the leading woman, and Mr. Wilson Hummel, the new comedian, make their first appearance.

"Camille," as presented by the Vendome Stock Company, will be a fine dramatic offering that ought to appeal to every lover of good stage art. When the management determined to produce the piece they determined to spare no expense, and it is a certainty that as a scenic production the play will be the equal of any this season's offerings by this company, and when this is added there is no other assurance of its excellence necessary.

UNIQUE MEASURE

To Prohibit Accumulation of Private Fortunes.

One of the most unique measures introduced in the House for a long time was offered by Representative Griffiths, Democrat, of Indiana. It provides for an amendment to the constitution so as to prohibit the accumulation of a private fortune exceeding $10,000,000 and directs that any accumulation in excess of that amount shall be forfeited to the Federal Government. Mr. Griffiths does not claim to be the author of the resolution, but explained that he introduced it by request.

In Memorial.

The funeral services of Mr. S. H. Claggett occurred at the 9th Street Presbyterian church, of which church Mr. Claggett had for many years been a member and communicant. The pastor, Rev. W. L. Nourse was assisted by the pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, Rev. Mr. Wyatt. Mr. Claggett was widely known as one of the most energetic, courageous and successful farmers in Christian county and in face of those untoward influences which have so seriously impeded the farmers success in recent years, he has steadily prosecuted his work with increasing prosperity. He has demonstrated what industry, attention and persistent courage can accomplish on the farm. Early in his residence in this county he lost his wife, who was in the highest sense a helpmeet to him and was left with a family of sons and daughters. One son and daughter he lost, but those left in their standing character, bear testimony to their father's care and fidelity. No young men in the county have better promise of success than his sons. His daughter was ever a sweet soul to her father. W. L. Nourse
